Hi 5.1.2.e,

Apologies indeed for the late response. I can chat tomorrow from 3 to 4 PM, but not in the mornings (9-12) next week. My Covid working hours are 1.30-6PM and 7.30-11PM.

Best,

Dear 5.1.2.e,

Thank you for your email and apologies for the delay in getting back to you. Both 5.1.2.e and I are juggling working from home with small children, a skill we haven't quite mastered yet.

Of course we'd be happy to discuss these issues with you in greater detail. As you know, Mozilla's role in the fight against disinformation looks different from other companies as we are not a content platform. We've been doing our small part to surface quality information and supporting developers and others in our community to build tools that contribute to better managing the pandemic.

This week is already quite full, though I am free tomorrow between 12:30 and 16:00. But next week, particularly between 9-12 CEST would be ideal. 5.1.2.e can also weigh in with his availability, and please let us know yours, and hopefully we can find a time that suits us all soon.

All the best,

5.1.2.e

Onderwerp: Videocall Dutch Government-Mozilla about disinformation & COVID-19

Dear 5.1.2.e and 5.1.2.e

I am a new colleague of 5.1.2.e at the Interior Department of the Dutch Government. One of the topics I work on is disinformation policy. During the COVID-19-crisis we have been in contact with several tech companies about their disinformation policy and other measures taken in the past month. Up until now we have not been in contact with Mozilla about the COVID-19-crisis and the effect it has on the spread of (dis-)information online. We would be very interested to hear what additional measures Mozilla is taking in these times, but also your perspective on the recent developments regarding disinformation spread and the role that tech companies and the government can play in this. Would you be willing to meet (virtually of course) with us to discuss this, possibly coming Wednesday, the 22nd?

Kind regards,

5.1.2.e
