Dear HSC secretariat,

The Netherlands does not require a (negative) test certificate to enter the country. However, travellers from countries for which an orange/red travel advisory is in place because of the spread of the coronavirus are strongly advised to self-quarantine for 10 days upon arrival in the Netherlands. Testing facilities have been set up at Amsterdam Schiphol airport for travellers from these countries. However, a negative test result cannot lift the 10-day quarantine measure.

Warm regards,

Onderwerp: Inquiry from PT: Information about travel measures

Dear Members of the Health Security Committee,
 Dear Colleagues,

[REDACTED]

5.1.2a

When consulting Reopen EU platform, we couldn't gather detailed information on this issue; in fact, only a few Member-Stated specify the type and timing required for the test.

Therefore, we would very much appreciate if the HSC could inform us or question Member-States regarding the following:

- Which type of test is required to enter each country regarding travellers from EU/EEE and UK and other countries outside EU/EEE and UK?
- What is the timing/period for testing required previously to travel?"

Many thanks for your contribution,

Best regards,

HSC Secretariat
